Five Protective Factors to Strengthen Your Family

Every family struggles from time to time; those struggles are what allows us to grow closer and stronger as a family. This guide has been created to give everyone in the Williams area access to the services they may need when times get tough.

“Protective Factors are the strengths and resources that families can draw on when life gets difficult. Taking those good characteristics and building on them is a proven way to strengthen the entire family and thus decrease the likelihood of maltreatment. Each of the protective factors is essential, but most important is what they do together to create strength and stability in families.” “Bringing the Protective Factors Framework to Life in Your Work.” www.ctfalliance.com, Web. 15 June 2015.

The five protective factors are:

1. Parental Resilience (PR) – The ability to learn from difficult life experiences and use them to better yourself and your family in the future.
2. Social Connections (SC) – Positive relationships that provide emotional, informational and spiritual support. You are not alone!
3. Knowledge of Parenting and Child Development (PCD) – An understanding of your child’s development and parenting strategies that will support your child’s mental, emotional, cognitive, social and physical development.
4. Concrete Support in Times of Need (TN) – Access to services that address a family’s needs and help minimized the stress caused by challenges we all face.
5. Social and Emotional Competence of Children (SE) – Helping children develop the ability to communicate, recognize and regulate their emotions. Also, the ability to establish and maintain healthy relationships.

As you look through this guide, please reference the above abbreviations. Each entry will use these to indicate which services can assist with the protective factors.

If you are interested in learning more about the protective factors and how they can influence your family, please visit the National Alliance of Children’s Trust & Prevention Funds at <http://www.ctfalliance.org/onlinetraining.htm>.
